Children ages 8 to 12 who are not authorized to use virtual reality devices can still share in the experience by using a tablet. In both instances, they must be accompanied by an adult. Please note that the adult accompanying the child during his or her visit will wear a virtual reality headset. THE INFINITE will not be accessible to persons under the age of 8 on the day of their visit, even if accompanied by an adult. We cannot make exceptions.

Restrictions also apply to visitors with special health conditions. Please take a few minutes to read the following health warning.

HEALTH AND SAFETY POLICY

HEALTH WARNING

When using a virtual reality headset, it is preferable to wear contact lenses instead of glasses. Please follow all instructions given by our staff regarding the proper use of the virtual reality headset. Please empty your pockets of all sharp objects and notify us immediately if you feel uncomfortable. Wearing the virtual reality headset is not recommended if you suffer from sleep deprivation, anxiety, are under the influence of drugs or alcohol, have migraines, earaches or other ailments. These can increase your sensitivity to adverse symptoms. People who are prone to motion sickness are also more likely to experience discomfort when using a virtual reality headset. We recommend that pregnant women, the elderly, and people with psychiatric disorders, binocular vision abnormalities, heart disease, seizure disorders, or other serious illnesses, as well as people with pacemakers or hearing aids, consult a physician before using a virtual reality headset or any other form of immersive technology. Do not use virtual reality headsets if you have symptoms of strabismus, amblyopia or anisometropia. These symptoms may be aggravated by the use of virtual reality headsets.

STROBE EFFECTS

Please note that THE INFINITE experience includes strobe effects that may cause nausea, primarily in the work by artist Ryoji Ikeda.

COVID-19

You must select a specific date and time to attend an event when you purchase your ticket during the COVID-19 pandemic. If you need to cancel your visit or change the date or time, please contact us at the email address listed below. Anyone experiencing any of the symptoms of COVID-19 or who has been in contact with a person diagnosed with COVID-19 is asked not to attend. If you have symptoms associated with COVID-19, please reschedule your visit by contacting us as soon as possible by email at boxoffice@theinfiniteexperience.world.

SECURITY PROTOCOL

We have security measures in place to protect you from COVID-19. To learn more, please read this safety protocol.

OVERVIEW

In response to the global pandemic caused by the spread of COVID-19 and in an effort to provide virtual reality experiences to the public in the safest way possible, the team has implemented the following COVID-19 safety protocol: The team ensures that each element of the protocol is systematically implemented to provide a range of precautions to allow each participant to enjoy the full experience. It is important that each element of the protocol is followed.

Staff may deny access to any individual who refuses to follow the instructions.

PROHIBITED ITEMS

The following items are restricted, may not be brought into the exhibition, and may be confiscated by exhibition staff: illegal Drugs.

We encourage you to leave your valuables, large bags, and other personal belongings at home.

ACCESSIBILITY

In our commitment to ensure that our immersive experience is as inclusive and accessible as possible, we provide numerous alternative ways for it to be experienced to accommodate individuals with disabilities.

Mobility:

If you have special mobility concerns. Throughout, the exhibition is outfitted with ramps, and all entrances and exits are designed wide enough for manual wheelchairs, canes, walkers, or alternative manual mobility devices.

For those with reduced mobility (RM), we have a few different options available to accommodate you:

- 1) Guests with reduced mobility and requiring the assistance of a companion

To provide better guidance and to have a more enjoyable experience, companions of people with reduced mobility are strongly encouraged to do the virtual reality component as well. The intention is for both parties to share the virtual universe. One companion is entitled to free admission. Manual Transport Wheelchairs are available on-site free of charge for visitors to use.

- 2) Guest with reduced mobility attending alone

During the virtual reality component of the experience, we can activate a slightly larger virtual protection radius around you. This is to help visitors respect your distance while you're in the virtual space.

Options for Motorized Wheelchairs:

The free-roaming portion of the experience is not accessible to all types of motorized wheelchairs. As a result of their weight combined with the motion of their wheels, motorized wheelchairs cause torsion that could damage the sensors underneath the free-roaming portion of the virtual experience. The following options are available to individuals with motorized wheelchairs.

- 1) Motorized Wheelchairs that can be put in manual mode operate similarly to a Manual Transport Wheelchair and are therefore safe to use in manual mode during the free-roaming part of the experience. You're entitled to a free admission for your companion who is encouraged to do the virtual reality component with you.

- 2) For those in Motorized Wheelchairs who are unable to operate in manual mode, there's also an option to see an edited seated documentary version that lasts approximately the same duration as the free-roaming part of the experience. While it's not interactive, it's a 360-degree immersive documentary that lets you experience life aboard the International Space Station.

- 3) We can also provide a Manual Transport Wheelchair on-site free of charge.

We highly advise you to call in advance if you require the use of one of our Manual Transport Wheelchairs to ensure that it will be reserved for you.

For visitors who experience motion sickness or vertigo:

For those who experience motion sickness or vertigo, we have a few options:

- 1) We have the option for the experience to be done with the use of a tablet and augmented reality technology. This will let visitors share the same experience alongside their friends and family, and see what they're seeing.

2) We've also created an edited seated documentary version that lasts approximately the same duration as the free-roaming part of the experience. While it's not interactive, it's a 360-degree immersive documentary that lets visitors still experience life aboard the International Space Station.

For visitors who are hearing impaired:

English subtitles are available.

For visitors who are visually impaired:

While it may seem like a medium so dependent on vision can't accommodate individuals who are blind or have difficulty seeing, it's still possible for them to participate in a version of the experience. Sound design in virtual reality is effective and interesting. VR technology allows for the realistic placement of sounds within a virtual space. This means that visitors can turn their heads and the sound will correspond to the placement of their head—it would still give the sensation as though they were really aboard the ISS. This is called ambisonic sound, and there's ongoing research being done into the benefits of virtual reality, ambisonic sound design, and its application in creating experiences for the visually impaired. These visitors would, unfortunately, be limited to the seated experience to reduce the possibility of collision with other users in virtual reality. They're equally entitled to a free ticket to accommodate a companion.

SERVICE ANIMALS

We request guests with non-traditional service animals to contact the exhibition in advance of their visit.

PHYSICAL DISTANCING

The virtual reality facilities have been designed with safety in mind. The different spaces have been designed to ensure the greatest possible distancing, the flow of visitors has also been reduced. All employees and customers must maintain a physical distance of at least 2 meters in their interactions.

CLEANING AND HYGIENE

All surfaces will be disinfected at the end of each day.

HYGIENE

Clients must wash their hands or use a hand sanitizer containing more than 60% ethanol or 70% isopropanol upon arrival. All staff members must wash their hands or use hand sanitizer between visits.
