SURFACE TENSION

Valérie Belin Still life with dish 2014

October 16, 2014 – February 8, 2015

DHC/ART is pleased to present Valérie Belin's first major survey exhibition in North America.

French artist Valérie Belin creates monumental monochrome or hyper-saturated colour images that meet at the intersections of still life, the studio portrait, and concepts of minimalist sculpture. Her engagement with photography over the last twenty years has allowed her to create a body of work that is singular in its ability to meaningfully consider the plasticity of the medium through an exploration of artifice and illusion, as well as collection and display.

Taking the concept of 'surface tension' as a curatorial thread, this solo exhibition will feature images produced throughout the 2000s with an emphasis on her most recent works, which demonstrate the power of digital tools to exponentially increase the possibilities of chromatic intervention. In collaboration with the artist, works chosen for this exhibition are taken from the series Engines (2002), Mannequins (2003), Chips (2004), Masks (2004), Fruit Baskets (2008), Black Eyed Susan (2010), Brides (2012), Interiors (2012), Bob (2013), and Still Life (2014).
